The United Nations Voluntary Trust Fund for Victims of Trafficking in Persons, Especially Women and Children (UNVTF) was established in July 2010 by the UN General Assembly, through the adoption of Resolution 64/293, endorsing the United Nations Global Plan of Action to Combat Trafficking in Persons.

Administered by the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime (UNODC) on behalf of the UN System, the Trust Fund's mandate is to provide humanitarian, legal and financial aid to victims of trafficking in persons through the awarding of multi-year grants to specialized civil society organizations (CSOs) who are on the frontlines of tackling human trafficking and providing key victims assistance.

My exploiter threatened me so much, that I was afraid to ask for help... She convinced me that if I do not pay off all my debt, she would get me arrested or beaten up by the warden.

I am so happy that I am finally home. I do not know how to express my gratitude to everyone who helped me get out of this bondage and return to my son.

- Nazgul Ezhe*, 52, victim of human trafficking (forced labor).

*Nazgul was supported by Insan-Leilek Public Foundation in Kyrgyzstan, funded by the UNVTF. Read more on her journey and stories of other victims of trafficking on pg. 17.

Foreword

In 2023, the global fight against human trafficking continued to face many challenges, with looming conflicts, growing economic disparities and challenges presented by climate emergencies, leading to increased instability, displacement of individuals and compounding people's vulnerabilities and risks.

Victims of trafficking often have to overcome daunting physical and psychological trauma, social isolation and stigma, legal and economic challenges, difficulties in accessing support services in and reintegrate into society. The stark reality is that despite the pervasive nature of this most heinous crime, the funding that is made available towards victims' assistance remains woefully inadequate.

This is where the United Nations Trust Fund for Victims of Human Trafficking (UNVTF) plays a crucial role.

Despite these challenges, we have seen resilience and progress in our shared mission to restore victims' lives, voice & agency. The results as showcased through this Annual Report stand testimony to the amazing work accomplished by the Fund.

The Trust Fund remains steadfast in its commitment to support more and more NGOs who are on the frontlines of assisting victims and those most left behind, especially women and children. By strengthening the voices of survivors, by being more inclusive, we hope to create a platform for transformative change led by those with lived experiences, ensuring that their needs and insights are at the heart of everything we do.

As Chairperson, and the first survivor of trafficking to join the UNVTF board, I am proud of the progress the Trust Fund has made, but I am deeply aware of the work that lies ahead.

I will work closely with my fellow board members to provide strategic guidance to the Fund, to listen to civil society voices, to remain persistent in our advocacy and outreach, as well as leverage our individual roles and positions to appeal to Member States, philanthropic foundations, private sector, and individuals to contribute generously to the Trust Fund.

With renewed commitments from our partners the Trust Fund will be able to make even greater impact and reach thousands of more victims that are in desperate need of assistance.

To all our partners and friends, who stand with us in solidarity, we extend our heartfelt gratitude.

Introduction

The 2023 Annual Progress Report offers a comprehensive overview of the accomplishments, management, and activities of the United Nations Voluntary Trust Fund for Victims of Trafficking in Persons (hereinafter referred as Trust Fund or UNVTF). It provides insight into the vital role played by the UNVTF in supporting NGOs, who are on the front lines of supporting victims of human trafficking, and highlights the diverse initiatives that have been financed through the Trust Fund's grants mechanism. The report also delves into the broader impact of these efforts, emphasizing how the Trust Fund's support has empowered NGO partners in making tangible progress towards victims' assistance.

The report has been prepared by the UN Office on Drugs and Crime (UNODC), which manages the UNVTF Secretariat out of Vienna, Austria. In its capacity, UNODC has overseen the allocation of resources, monitoring of funded project and the coordination of efforts aimed at providing relief and support to victims of human trafficking.

The report covers the period from 1 January to 31 December 2023 and presents a deep-dive account of select narrative, results-based outcomes, and financial data associated with the Trust Fund's activities during this time. It outlines the specific progress made by the Trust Fund, including the projects funded, and highlights the positive impact these efforts have had on the ground. The information contained in this report is drawn from various sources, including project reports submitted by NGO grantees, financial statements, as well as on-site and virtual monitoring visits conducted to ensure the effective implementation and oversight of the projects.

Board of Trustees

Article 38 of the UN Global Plan of Action stipulates that UNODC administer the Trust Fund with the advice of a five-member Board of Trustees appointed by the UN Secretary-General. Board members are selected, with due regard to equitable geographical distribution, and in consultation with Member States and the Executive Director of UNODC, for a three-year term.

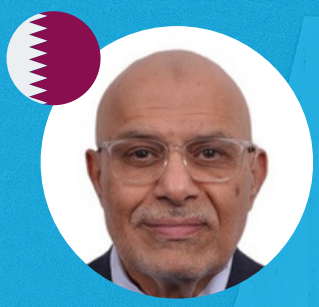

The five members provide strategic guidance and fundraising support to the Trust Fund Secretariat.

For the term, 2023-2026, Board members include:

VICTORIA NYANJURA (Chair)

Founder, Women in Action for Women

ABDULLH Al-NAMEH

Adviser to President, Qatar Charity

MIRA SORVINO

Actor, Activist, UNODC Goodwill Ambassador

MARIANA RUENES

Founder and President, SINTRATA

Founder and Director, NGO ATINA

Mandate & Management

The United Nations Global Plan of Action against Trafficking in Persons was adopted on 30 July 2010 by the General Assembly. Through the Global Plan of Action, the General Assembly established the UN Voluntary Trust Fund for Victims of Trafficking in Persons, Especially Women and Children (UNVTF). The Trust Fund's objective is to provide humanitarian, legal and financial aid to victims of trafficking in persons through the awarding of multi-year grants to specialized non-governmental organizations around the globe., who are on the frontlines of tackling human trafficking & victims assistance.

These NGOs are selected through a rigorous grant-selection process that is led and facilitated by the UNVTF Secretariat based in Vienna, Austria.

Since its establishment, the UNVTF has:

Provided direct support to over 90,000 victims of human trafficking...

through over 190 NGO projects....

across 60+ countries.

The UNVTF provides the opportunity for NGOs to apply to mainly two funding channels:

Emergency Assistance

Project duration & budget: up to 12

for

Shelter/accommodation

Physical check-ups and medicines

Grants Programme

During 2023, the grantee's results, achievements and lessons learned continued to play a vital role in informing, refining, and enhancing the UNVTF's support and grant-giving practices. Central to this approach is responding to emerging needs and contextual challenges. Sustained efforts to strengthen our relationships with partners and key stakeholders have enabled the Trust Fund to increase its efforts to support more and more grassroots NGOs providing direct assistance to victims of human trafficking.

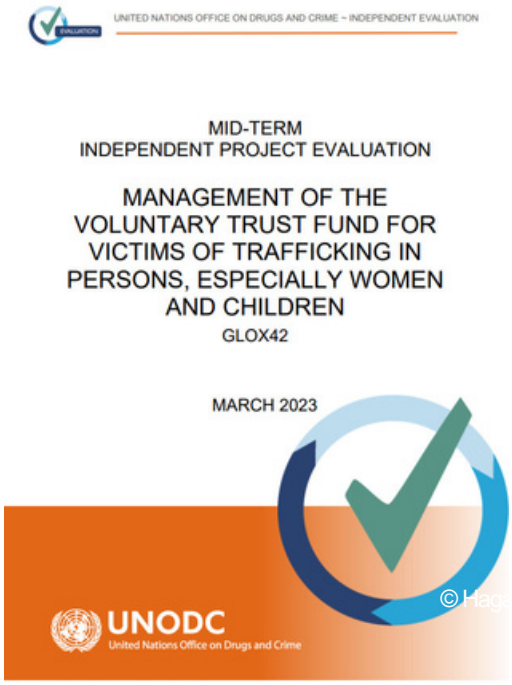

In 2023, the Trust Fund managed the implementation of 51 projects under five different grant cycles. Two Call for Proposals for Cycle 7.1 (Emergency assistance) and Cycle 7.2 (Comprehensive assistance) were launched in the same year. Under Cycle 7.1, 10 projects (out of 184 proposals received) across 9 countries were selected for grants up to US$ 20,000. While under Cycle 7.2, 7 projects (out of 171 proposals) across 8 countries were selected for grants up to US$ 60,000.

Further information on the grants selection are provided on Pg. 10-13.

Evaluation of the Trust Fund

In 2023, the UNVTF completed an independent project evaluation of the Fund. The main objectives of the evaluation were to draw lessons learned from the evaluation results to help improve the management and operations of the Trust Fund; to further accountability to donors; identify the value add; and formulate recommendations for improvement.

The exercise covered the period from mid-2014 to June 2022, and made efforts to reach out to diverse stakeholders. It used a mixed-methods approach; data collection included both quantitative and qualitative data via different methods, that is, document review, electronic survey, regional focus-group discussions (FGDs), and semi-structured interviews with key stakeholders.

The report highlights the Fund's crucial relevance in supporting and providing direct assistance to victims of trafficking. A key finding of the evaluation is that the Fund has been able to achieve long-term impact which stretches beyond project completion. Thus, continuation of support to CSOs through the UNVTF is regarded as highly relevant given their experience in the provision of direct assistance to victims, and their ability to complement and fill the gaps of in-country institutional efforts.

The evaluation confirms the efficiency of the UNVTF in transferring funds to grantee NGOs with no delay. Despite resource constraints (both human and financial), the UNVTF has taken steps to increase the frequency of CfP launches every year (minimum two per year), accommodate emergency-type interventions and hone issues more specifically to cater to emerging global crises situations. Especially during COVID-19, UNVTF funds were regarded as extremely important as there was lack of alternative funding for direct assistance of victims. UNVTF's fast track emergency aid sub-programme has been appreciated as an effective, useful, and timely response. Grantee CSOs praised the flexible approach in the utilization of UNVTF funding, this is in terms of funding activities that otherwise are very difficult to cover by other funding sources. The CfP application process and templates have also been appreciated by CSOs to be non-complicated, easy to fill, fair and objective.

Key events

The UNVTF co-sponsored 3 side events at the #CCPCJ32 in May 2023. This included the panel on:
(1) 'Enhancing our Efforts to Target the Demand that Fosters Trafficking in Persons for the Purpose of Sexual Exploitation', organized by Sweden with the support of France, Spain, Finland, Iceland, and the European Union, and the UNVTF;
(2) 'Safety Net for Victims of Organized Crime: Bridging the Justice Gap Through Civil Society Actions', organized by the UNODC Civil Society Unit with the support of Sweden, the United States, and the UNVTF; and
(3) 'Strengthening the Multilateral Co-operation Against Trafficking in Persons that Occurs or is Amplified through the Use of Technology', organized by Belarus & Philippines, with the support of HTMSS, and UNVTF (participation of previous UNVTF-funded CSO Love Justice International)

NGO Partnerships: Driving Impact Through Our Grants

In 2023, the UNVTF launched its seventh round of funding, offering both short-term emergency grants and longer-term comprehensive support. NGOs from around the world applied, and project proposals were carefully reviewed and selected abiding by established grants selection guidelines and UNODC's partnership criteria, ensuring quality assistance for victims, fair geographical distribution, as well as value for money.

The UNVTF supported 17 NGOs, with Cycle 7.1 providing emergency aid to victims of human trafficking, and Cycle 7.2 offering comprehensive, long-term support for their recovery and reintegration.

Project selected under UNVTF's 7.1 grants cycle (Emergency assistance) :

NGO	Country	Project focus
EVER FREE (Willow Intl)	Uganda	This project provides medical and psychiatric care, along with comprehensive support, to 40 trafficked women from Sub-Saharan Africa, focusing on recovery, reintegration, and preventing revictimization.
Initiative Humanitaire pour le Développement (IHD)	Democratic Republic of the Congo	This project aims to provide medical care, psychosocial support, and socio-economic reintegration services to 602 victims, mainly women and girls who were victims of forced sex trafficking in the mining squares of Shabunda, South Kivu.
Anti trafficking action (ASTRA)	Serbia	This project supports 30 exploited migrant women, reaches 300 potential trafficking victims, and provides legal, medical, and psychological assistance, while promoting self-help groups and raising awareness about labor exploitation.
Life Bloom Services International (LBSI)	Kenya	This Kenya-based project supported 43 trafficking survivors with counseling, education, and leadership training, while helping 10 women start income-generating poultry projects for sustainable livelihoods.
Ovibashi Karmi Unnayan Program (OKUP)	Bangladesh	This project supports 166 returnee migrant workers in Bangladesh, especially women and girls, by offering comprehensive services including psychosocial counseling, healthcare, safe housing, legal aid, and vocational training.
Urban Light	Thailand	This project supports 450 vulnerable male survivors of human trafficking and their families, providing direct assistance through outreach, drop-in centers, and workshops to improve their health, well-being, and protection against re-trafficking.

Open Gate	North Macedonia	This project provided protection, psychosocial support, and essential services to 155 victims and 11 potential victims of trafficking, including Ukrainian refugees.
Agar Ethiopia Charitable Society (AGAR)	Ethiopia	This project provides shelter, basic needs, mental health services, and family reunification for 50 women and 10 children who are survivors of trafficking from the Middle East.
Women, Infants, and Children Care Initiative (WICCI)	Nigeria	This project supported 45 trafficking victims in Nigeria through medical care, business skills training, and vocational training, while building partnerships with government agencies and NGOs to raise awareness about trafficking and prevent re-trafficking.
Awareness against Human Trafficking (HAART)	Kenya	This project in Kenya supports 30 trafficking victims, primarily women, non-cis-male persons, and children, by providing shelter, healthcare, economic empowerment, and legal assistance.

CSO	Country	Project focus
Corporación Espacios de Mujer (CEM)	Colombia	The project aims to provide direct assistance to 30 trafficking victims, including young and adult women, men, LGBTIQ+ individuals, as well as internally displaced people and international migrants.
Future Hopes Integrated Development Organization (FHIDO)	Ethiopia	This project supports 150 trafficking survivors in Tigray, focusing on the rights of women and children. It provides recovery, rehabilitation, and reintegration services, with outreach to victims' places of origin.
Capital Humano y Social Alternativo (CHSA)	Peru	This project assists 50 Venezuelan migrant women and girls trafficked for sexual exploitation, offering legal, psychosocial, and health services, while strengthening state agencies to improve victim protection and justice.
ELIBERARE	Romania	The project identifies trafficking victims among Ukrainian refugees and vulnerable Romanian populations, providing emergency support to 50 victims, mainly women and children.
Friends-International (FI)	Thailand	This project assists 1,800 victims of sexual exploitation in Phnom Penh, providing medical care, shelter, psychosocial support, and job training, while preventing re-trafficking.
Médecins du Monde Belgique (MDM)	Tunisia	This project provides medical and psychosocial assistance to 200 victims of internal trafficking, including 100 women, 70 minors, and 30 men, using a mobile medibus and community outreach.
Greek Council for Refugees (GCR)	Greece	This project supports 50 trafficking victims, primarily women and girls from Africa and Asia, by providing psychological care, legal aid, language classes, and employment counseling.

On-ground impact of our projects

In 2023, significant progress was made through the dedicated efforts of NGO projects funded by the UNVTF around the world. Below are some highlights of the impactful results they have achieved:

Emergency Assistance

Afghanistan

Hagar International provided safe accommodation, medical support, education, and reintegration services to 76 Afghan girls who were trafficked or at high risk of exploitation. Of these, 41 girls have successfully reintegrated, while the remaining continue to receive support in the shelter. The shelter served girls facing human trafficking, domestic violence, homelessness, and health issues. An in-house nurse attended to urgent health needs, with medicine supplied directly in the shelter.

Ghana

Volta Revival Foundation successfully rescued 55 children trafficked into forced labor, with support from community members and local authorities. The children received comprehensive humanitarian assistance, including shelter, food, hygiene care, health screenings, psychological assessments, and human rights mentorship. Each child was enrolled in school with all academic materials provided and participated in a structured daily routine of education, mentorship, and play activities at the shelter. The foundation worked closely with families, conducting counseling visits to educate them on human rights and trauma.

Democratic Republic of the Congo

Focus Droits et Access (FDA) provided critical support to 80 HIV-positive women and girls with disabilities, who were victims of human trafficking in Nyiragongo territory. These individuals faced severe rights violations, including sexual abuse, forced labor, and exploitation, exacerbated by the ongoing security crisis in North Kivu. FDA distributed essential food kits, containing rice, flour, salt, and oil, and non-food kits that included reusable sanitary strips, soap, clothing, bedding, and other essential items.

Psychosocial Support

Lebanon

Caritas Lebanon provided comprehensive psychosocial support to 50 women and girls residing in its shelters. This included 170 individual counseling sessions and group therapy for 120 residents, addressing mental health issues such as depression. In addition to individual follow-ups, residents participated in psychosocial activities like drama therapy and recreational sessions. Children benefited from group sessions that included recreational activities and homework support.

Legal Assistance

© Blue Dragon Children's Foundation, Vietname

Vietnam

Blue Dragon's Legal Team played a critical role in supporting 268 survivors of trafficking. They ensured that survivors could provide their testimonies to the police, aiding in investigations and the prosecution of traffickers. During this period, justice was secured for 59 survivors, with traffickers held accountable in court. Additionally, the Legal Team helped survivors recover lost or confiscated documents, allowing them access to essential services like education and healthcare. For those without legal recognition, they secured birth certificates and identification, enabling survivors to claim public assistance and begin rebuilding their lives.

Kyrgyzstan

Public foundation “Insan-Leilek” provided legal support to 100 migrant women exploited abroad. Insan-Leilek offered legal consultations for the families of migrants who were involved in forced labour, helping them bring their loved ones back home. A key achievement was the modernization of the website www.kgmigrant.org, which now features an online chat for trafficking victims seeking help. Over 713 requests were addressed via the online chat since the project began.

Economic Empowerment

North Macedonia

In North Macedonia, Open Gate supported 38 survivors of trafficking through its comprehensive program, helping them rebuild their lives and regain independence. Six beneficiaries successfully re-entered education, with four attending adult education, one resuming primary school, and another enrolling in high school. Regular educational workshops, covering subjects such as mathematics, Macedonian, English, and sciences, were provided at the Center for Victims of Trafficking. Furthermore, vocational training was a significant part of the reintegration process, with four beneficiaries completing a beautician course, seven participating in a filigree course, one finishing a sewing course, and two receiving international certificates in nail care. These programs equipped survivors with marketable skills, fostering their reintegration and economic independence.

Nigeria

Women, Infants, and Children Care Initiative organized a Business Management Skill Acquisition Training for 45 beneficiaries. The workshop covered essential topics such as goal setting, financial literacy, business decision-making, risk-taking, and stress management. Participants were introduced to small-scale business opportunities and received support in selecting income-generating activities for economic rehabilitation. Following the training, each participant was provided with start-up tools to begin their chosen business or vocation. The overall aim was to equip beneficiaries with the skills and knowledge necessary to create successful business plans and achieve financial independence.

Repatriation

Somalia

Tadamun Social Society (TASS) played a pivotal role in the repatriation of 50 young trafficking victims, including 12 Ethiopians and 38 Somalis, aged 13 to 17. Through close collaboration with community structures, child protection committees, police checkpoints, and courts, TASS identified the victims. One critical aspect of TASS's support was family tracing, where efforts were made to reconnect these girls with their families in Somalia and Ethiopia. This process was vital in restoring a sense of belonging and security, which is key to their emotional recovery. TASS's repatriation efforts went beyond reuniting families; the organization provided reintegration support, including psychosocial counseling, life skills training, and access to education, ensuring the girls could reintegrate into society and avoid the risk of re-trafficking.

Voices from the field

Nazgul's Story: Escaping Forced Labor

Nazgul Ezhe, a 52-year-old widow from the Jalal-Abad region of Kyrgyzstan, left her home country five years ago in search of work to support her two children. Struggling with financial difficulties and limited opportunities, she faced numerous hardships, including language barriers, lack of proper registration, and ignorance of labor rights.

Over the past year, Nazgul worked in various low-paying jobs, the most recent being in a fur processing workshop where she experienced forced labor. Without an employment contract, she endured long hours, low wages, and threats of violence. Her employer imposed fines for mistakes and withheld pay, pushing her into a cycle of debt. She worked more than 12 hours a day under constant fear of punishment, eventually losing her home due to unpaid rent and being left without money for food.

At her lowest point, while her son in Kyrgyzstan was hospitalized after a violent attack, Nazgul sought help from the Insan-Leilek Public Foundation. The foundation intervened, providing her with legal, psychological, and humanitarian support. They facilitated her safe return to Kyrgyzstan, where she could reunite with her son and begin her long journey of recovery and reintegration.

"My exploiter threatened me so much, that I was afraid to ask for help. I was convinced that she will find out and punish me again. I am so happy that I am finally home. I do not know how to express my gratitude to everyone who helped me get out of this bondage and return to my son" Nazgul shared, relieved to be free from her exploiters.

Madina's Story: A Journey to Hope and Independence

Madina, an 18-year-old Afghan girl, has faced immense challenges since the tragic murder of her mother at age 14 due to a family financial dispute. Left vulnerable, her father sought to marry her off to an older man in exchange for a bride for himself. Refusing the arrangement, Madina fled with her sisters to a safe house but was soon brought back home. Facing renewed threats of forced marriage and domestic violence, she escaped again, this time finding refuge at the Hagar Girls' Shelter.

At the shelter, Madina has found safe accommodation, regular psychosocial support, and a chance to continue her education, an opportunity denied to many girls in Afghanistan. She actively participates in drawing classes, educational programs, and vocational training in tailoring. Despite her father's attempts to bring her back, Madina remains determined to build her own future. She is committed to completing her education, securing a job, and choosing her life partner on her terms.

Madina is deeply grateful to Hagar International for providing her a safe place and the support she needs to pursue a hopeful and independent future.

Shashi's Story: Journey to Freedom

Shashi is from West Bengal, where she lived with her parents in poverty. After completing up to Class 10, she had to discontinue her education to help her father on a farm. Her situation worsened when she was married to a man from her village who regularly abused her. After having a son, she eventually left her husband and returned to her parents' home, continuing to work on the farm.

One day, Shashi met a woman who promised her a better job in Pune. Trusting the promise, she left her son with her parents and traveled to Pune with the woman, who turned out to be a trafficker. Shashi was introduced to a Spa owner who, under the pretense of employment, forced her into sexual exploitation. She was held for 12 days before being rescued by Rescue Foundation during an operation that also freed five other girls.

Shashi was brought to Rescue Foundation's Pune Protective Home, where she received care and support. Though her trafficker was not arrested, the Spa owner was taken into custody. After a successful home verification, Shashi was reunited with her family in West Bengal. Rescue Foundation continues to follow up on her well-being through a local partner.

Irais' Story: Path to Healing

In 2020, Irais entered the La Casa del Jardín Shelter in Rosarito, Baja California, after being trafficked for sexual exploitation. Deceived by her boyfriend's false promises of a comfortable life, she moved to Tijuana in 2019, hoping to provide a better future for her family. Initially, she lived in a nice apartment, but things quickly took a dark turn. Her boyfriend fabricated a story about a massive debt and threatened that they would both be killed if she didn't pay it off. Under this coercion, Irais was forced into sex work, suffering beatings, abuse, and humiliation.

With the support of the Binational Network of Hearts, Irais found shelter, security, psychological and medical care, and legal assistance. Thanks to the organization's collaboration with government institutions, her aggressor was arrested, and she was reunited with her son. Now emotionally stable and determined, Irais is on her way to rebuilding her life with strength and hope for a dignified future.

Contributions and Pledges

In 2023, the Trust Fund mobilized US$ 1,804,116 from Member States, the private sector, and individuals. The desirable annual funding target for the UNVTF as determined by the Board of Trustees is US$ 2 million annually that would guarantee a predictable and stable level of grants to a growing number of partner NGOs. While close, this level of funding has not been reached in 2023, thus the launch of another grants cycle would require a replenishment of the fund. A table with the detailed list of partners to the Trust Fund can be found in Annex 2.

Grants out and other expenditures

UNODC established the project GLOX42 - Management of the Voluntary Trust Fund for Victims of Trafficking in Persons, especially Women and Children - as a vehicle for delivering the objectives of the Trust Fund, in particular for the management of the grants programme and the Trust Fund's operating costs. As indicated in the 2023 Certified Financial Statement, the total expenditure for active projects amounted to US$ 582,274.

Additional expenses charged to the Trust Fund were for operational, oversight and monitoring activities and for the general management of the Trust Fund. In accordance with United Nations Financial Regulations and as per the Terms of Reference of the Trust Fund, programme support costs (PSC) were levied on all contributions to the Trust Fund at the rate of 13% of the total annual expenditures.
